

POP-UP MURDER MYSTERY PARTIES

Corporate and business events
for really fun people

Our Parties

Our pop-up murder mystery parties for up to 60 attendees are a perfect way to break the ice or celebrate a team! With our parties, your attendees won't be passively watching the drama unfold; they will be playing a suspect in a murder mystery whodunnit. Our games are the perfect mix of structured fun and light improv that builds relationships and memories between colleagues and friends.

Foulplay Games

Foulplay Games is a women-owned murder mystery business based in Seattle, WA. We have over a decade hosting murder mystery parties for comic conventions like Emerald City Comic Con and corporate events for companies like Pinterest, PetSmart and more.

HOW OUR MURDER MYSTERY PARTIES WORK

"I just did my first murder mystery game ever through this group and I had the best time! it was engaging, entertaining, really easy to get into my character and I got to spend the evening with a lot of great people. 5 out of 5. Would highly recommend and can't wait to do another game with them."

1

We set up at your office space or another venue of your choice with decorations, props, a music playlist and more. Your attendees will arrive and be organized in groups of 1-3, depending on your total number of attendees. Players will read over their character profile and grab their name tag and props. A Foulplay Host will review the ground rules, get the game set up and answer any questions.

2

Attendees mix and mingle, introducing themselves to other players, using our guided Character Profiles. Then a murder happens, which kicks off the investigation. Players receive their Goals and Objectives, play money, and any items their character has. Players resume play, figuring out whodunnit, and accomplishing their own goals and objectives.

3

The game wraps up and players fill out a Whodunnit form with their best guess as to whodunnit and their vote for Best Performer and Best Costume. The Investigator reads the Solution and players share any and all secrets they were keeping. The game wraps up with awards and prizes!
